PROFLIE

 I am a skilled mobile application software developer with eight years of expertise working on a variety of tools for iOS and Android for a variety of clients. I have a track record of developing sports betting and gambling apps. I have a thorough understanding of the mobile app project lifecycle and am skilled in all elements of development, from project planning to gathering requirements to writing and testing code, creating documentation, and providing support. I'm currently looking for long-term contract work that will allow me to hone my project management talents.
